We cannot provide photos of PALNA children

PALNA is probably Delhi's most well-known home for abandoned children. It was established in 1978. Children typically arrive at Palna either through the cradle (palna means cradle) at our gate or are brought to us by the police, often in a precarious state of health. Donations to sponsor the care of a child at Palna are used to support one of our children for a month. Alongside caring for, rehabilitating and educating the child, we try and place each child in adoption in a suitable family after a very thorough vetting process. Today there are thousands of happy, successful, Palna children all over the world, making their mark in society.

Your donation was used to care for Here are some details about her.

was clinically around a five year old abandoned little girl when she was brought to Palna by the Police on 18th June 2014. She was immediately taken to our Medical Crisis Unit for a medical examination by the Palna doctors. It was observed that she was underweight on arrival. Other routine investigations done at Palna were near normal. During her stay she has been treated for an insect bite with oral antibiotics. Other than this she is doing well. She has been vaccinated for age scheduled immunizations, and is doing well at PALNA, attending classes and mixing with the other children.

We hope going forward we will be able to find a suitable who will adopt and make her a part of their family. Thank you for your support in making a safe and healthy future a possibility for her!
